DETAILED ACTION

Claims 52, 54-55, 83, and 87 are pending in the instant application.

Amendments

The amendment filed on November 21, 2008 has been acknowledged and has been entered into the application file.

Previous Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claims 52, 54-55, 83, and 85-87 were previously rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kästner et al. (DE 41 26 543 A1).

Applicant has traversed the rejection on the grounds that Kästner et al. do not teach the use of the instant compounds claimed by the Applicant. The Examiner points out that the claims are drawn to a product, not a method of use of a product. Therefore, the use of a compound is not a limitation that must be addressed. The requirements for a prima facie case of obviousness are provided by teaching the limitations of the claims by the combined teachings of the prior art, providing a motivation to the person of ordinary skill to combine the teachings, and to provide the person of ordinary skill in the art a reasonable expectation of success. The motivation to synthesize a compound in the prior art can be different from the motivation of Applicant to synthesize the claimed compounds as a product is being claimed and not a method of use. The court in KSR v. Teleflex (82 USPQ2d 1385) stated that the problem solved by the prior art need not be the same problem as that solved by the instant application. Applicant is reminded that finding a new use for an old or obvious product does not make that product patentable. The Applicant states that nothing in Kästner et al. teaches the particular change to add a trifluoromethyl group to ring B, however, Kästner et al. clearly teaches this on page 8, lines 59-61. Therefore, the prima facie case of obviousness stands and the rejection stands on claims 52, 54-55, 83, and 87. The rejection is withdrawn for claims 85 and 86 as they have been cancelled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 52, 54-55, 83, and 87 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kästner et al. (DE 41 26 543 A1).

The instant application cites compounds of the formula where X_1 is halogen; and C_1 is H.

Determination of the scope and content of the prior art (MPEP §2141.01)

Kästner et al. teach a compound of the formula as defined. See page 2, line 60 through page 3, line 6.

Ascertainment of the difference between the prior art and the claims (MPEP §2141.02)

Kästner et al. do not teach specifically all compounds which fall into the scope of the instant invention.

Finding of prima facie obviousness--rational and motivation (MPEP §2142-2413)

Kästner et al. teach generally the compounds of the instant invention, including the elected species when Ar is 2-hydroxyphenyl substituted by Cl, R is phenyl substituted by CF_3 and R^1 is hydrogen. See page 2, line 60 through page 3, line 6. Kästner et al also teaches the pharmaceutical composition comprising the compounds. See page 6, lines 40-49.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the claimed invention to follow the synthetic scheme of Kästner et al. and make the claimed invention with a reasonable expectation of success. The motivation to do so is provided by Kästner et al. Kästner et al. teach the use of the synthesized compounds to treat psoriasis. See page 6, lines 28-39.

Thus, the claimed invention as a whole was prima facie obviousness over the prior art.

Conclusion

Claims 52, 54-55, 83, and 87 are rejected.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
